THE LAW AND THE PORER GAME.

Winner Can't Collect Money Lent to the Laser to Make Good With the Bank. A loan of money made by the winner to the over after a game of draw poker was considered by the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court yesterday in an action brought by Joseph J. Total of 348,000 No Changes in Results. Jacoby to recover $90 from Charles Heidelberg. formerly a detective sergeant. The case was dismissed by Justice Finn of the First District Municipal Court, whose decision is affirmed by The game began on the evening of Oct. 7

1800, and closed between 2 and 3 o'clock next norning it was at the house of Maurice Meyer, a lawyer, who was one of the players The other players were the parties to the action and a person unnamed. They had a "kitty." and the limit was $1 and $2. The only winner

The defendant's version of what occurred when the lean was made differed a little from that of the plaintiff, but the Court decides that the plaintiff cannot recover on his own proof of facts. It is admitted that at the conclusion f the game Heldelberg awed the bank 102. He asked Meyer, who acted as banker, to make good his loss, but Meyer said he would not, us he had to pay his own losses. Meyer in-sisted that Heidelberg pay the bank the $92 and Jacoby says he lent Heidelberg the $92 by crediting Meyer, who owed him, Jacoby, more than $92, with that amount as paid on ac-count.

It is contended that this lean was an outside and separate transaction and took the case out of the defence set up by Heidelberg that the money sued for was lost in a game of chance. The decision of the Appellate Term, which is written by Justice O'Gorman, with Justices Giegerich and Beekman concurring, runs.

The principle is now well settled with respect to gambiang contracts that where a less is already incurred any person, other than the winner, who advances money or other property to the loser to emble him to pay the loss may recover such advance in the absence of a specific statute. But the plaintiff in this case is in no position to invoke the benefit of this rule. He was a person directly connected with the transaction. He was the only winner in the game, and there is no authority going to the extent of permitting a winner to recover from a loser, no matter what form the loan may take. is contended that this loan was an outside

She Got a Hatchet From the House and Took

No Chances. SUSQUERANNA, Pa., Nov. 27 - For weeks the farmers near Brookdale, Susquehanna county, have suffered from the depredations of an American eagle, which has lived on their poultry. On Sunday, while Mrs. Wheateroft, a widow, was alone in her home the eagle, which had beome a familiar object, descended in her poultry yard. A rooster, which was no match for the eagle, was in a moment putting up a gallant fight, but with one stroke the eagle killed yesterday norming, he wept. He said he had lost his place in a store because a woman who knew him told the storekeeper that he had been in the House of Refuge. Then he went to the bad again.

"The fact that the boy got out of the House of Refuge in eighteen months," said Judge Newburger, "showed that he was a good bey there and it was not his fault that he lost his opportunity to earn an honest living after he got out. I am going to see if I can not find some one who is willing to give him employment." Zuckowitz's mother lives at 17 Lud-low street.

TURKEY DRESSING. Dressed-

That isn't half as important as dressing for the turkey and for the festive occasion on Thursday, when that noble bird will be the central attraction.

Our business is dressing men and boys, and from the Sack Suit for business to the Cutaway or Frock or the clothes for formal Evening Dress, we have everything in apparel that a man can ask.

And it's ready for you at a minute's notice—ready to put on and wear without any more delay than to find your fit. Furnishings and Hats, too.

BOSTON'S TANAGRA FIGURINES SHAMS. RARE AZTEC POTTERY COLLECTION Gained by Northwestern University -- Dr. Cole's Discovertes to Cliff Dwellers' Cities.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 .- Dr. George L. Cole, the archæologist of the University of Southern California, at Los Angeles, has just brought to Northin a heretofore unexplored part of western Aztec pottery and Toltec instruments that are of great archæological value. Speaking of his explorations, Dr. Cole said "I began my work among ruins along Beaver Creek, in the lower Verde of central Arizona. There I explored the Castle of Montexuma which is a magnificent ruin seven stories high. It yielded few antiquities, and is not so interesting as the cliffs of the Mesa Verde. This is a series of rugged mountains, more than 2.0 esting as the chiffs of the Mesa Verde. This is a series of rugged mountains, more than 200 miles long and forty miles wide. The finest buildings are along the Mancos River. Here are numerous side canons, fortified at the opening by watch towers from 100 to 400 feet high. In these canons are to be found ruins of what appear to have been the first buildings on the American continent. The buildings in this district were constructed mostly of adobe. "Cities were numerous along the Mancos They were built in the side of sheer precipices 2,000 feet high. The entrances to a number of dwellings were located 700 feet above the river and the only means of reaching them was either by climbing up from below or down from above. In this region I counted 108 large buildings and I believe that there are more than 1,000 of them along the river."

Dr Cole found one building of more than 1,500 rooms, and in the same district found abother byramidal structure three stories high, with 500 rooms on the lower floor. In these buildings he made excavations, and took out some well-preserved skeletons ranging in height from 7 to 85 feet. In the same building he found skeletons of Aztees, basketmakers and Pueblos. The shape of the skulls shows that the Aztees were of a high order of intelligence. Skulls of basketmakers and Pueblos were not so highly developed. Dr Cole found rooms in which were mummles as well preserved as any taken from Egyptian pyramids. In rooms with mummiles were found corn, gum and various kinds of cloth. There were household goods, pipes, tear bottles made of clay and burned red and brown. The collection of pottery is the most complete that has ever been gathered from the ruins of homes of the cliff dwellers. The proof billing Day, 1941, 1942, 1944, 1

BIG KICK FROM POLICE SERGEANTS One Far Down in the List for Promotion Wants to Sue the Civil Service Board.

The dissatisfaction among the police sergeants Who took the civil service examination for promotion to captain and are not included in the eligible list announced by the Civil Service Board on Monday came to a head yesterday when Sergt. John McNally of the Macdougal street station filed an application with the Police Board for permission to bring suit against the Civil Service Commissioners to show cause why their action in omitting him from the list of eligible candidatet should not be reviewed and the list revised. In the mental examination he received 22% points out of a examination he received 22½ points out of a possible 25. He is a Civil War veteran and has a good record and he thinks he deserves better consideration.

Sergt Jacob Brown of the Grand Central station filed a protest with the Civil Service examiners. Of the 180 sergeants who competed he received the highest percentage in the mental examination, but he is twenty-eighth on the list and has no chance of being promoted, although in police circles it has been said that he was sure to be made a captain. Another man who was figured upon as a "sure thing" was Sergt Churchill of the West Sixty-eighth street station. He is not in the eligible list at all.

Sergt O'Gorman of the steamboat squad was moved up to second place yesterday. He proved to Chief Examiner Ireland of the Civil Service Commission that he is a veteran of the Civil War and was entitled to better recognition. O'Gorman has the record of saving more lives than any other man in the depariment. Mr Ireland said yesterday that he expected to receive a number of complaints from policemen who competed in the examination.
